7. Description

The Dickinson-Corey-Temple House at 410 2nd St SW is estimated to have been constructed in 1900 according to the Bremer County Assessor's records. However, the house appears on the 1894 Sanborn Map and a news account in the Waverly Republican on 10/16/1884 identifies Jonathan Dickinson has having purchased the S.H. Curtis place in the Third Ward and making improvements. It is also noted that it's is likely to make a "profitable investment." This commentary suggests this house was already in place and in use as a rental dwelling. The next available source for dating this building is the 1885 Iowa Census which lists Jonathan and his wife Martha along with their two children residing in Fractional Block 2 – the location for this house. The house passed briefly in 1887 to Walt Bucknell and again in 1892 to George Corey (Corry) who resided across the street. It is likely that it was being used as a rental dwelling by that time. Corey sold the house to Claude Temple in 1900 and members of the Temple family resided here in to the late 1920s. As a result of these public records, the date of ca. 1884 has been assigned to this dwelling. Additional research conducted by others dates various changes to the house.

The Dickinson-Corey-Temple House is an example of a vernacular Hipped Roof, 1-Story rectangular house form and with an undated side-gabled wing. The house has a parged stone foundation with the brick exterior walls on the original building with multi-colored synthetic stone (Permastone®) applied sometime prior to 1964. The house is the only example of a synthetic stone-clad residence in the neighborhood. An exposed brick chimney is centered on the south wall along the alley. The rear porch was enclosed for an additional bedroom and hall (note the foundation line change along the south side) sometime during the Temple family's ownership. The north wing and current front porch added during the 1980s and the kitchen remodeled in 1971, all of these dates confirmed by a former neighbor. The north wing wide clapboard-style vinyl siding on the exterior walls. The house had a low-pitched hipped roof with shallow eaves and no ornamentation. A lowpitched shed roofed front porch spans most of the front facade. The porch has a concrete block foundation with a wood balustrade consisting of narrowly spaced slant-top square spindles mounted on the exterior of the rails. The entrance steps extend at the north end of the porch. An original full-height battered square column on the porch is retained at the southeast corner with paired 4x4 inch posts in other locations along the roof edge. Fenestration includes single 1/1 double-hung windows of various heights set beneath segmental arched openings – a feature typical of brick houses. A detached single-bay garage built west of the house in ca. 1900 according to Assessor records has a front-gable roof and asbestos shingle (Transite ®) siding.

8. Significance

The Dickinson-Corey-Temple at 410 2nd Ave SW derives significance as a contributing resource in the Sturdevant SW Historic District, which qualifies for the National Register under both Criteria A (Community Development) and C (Architecture). Despite alterations made in the mid-20th century, the house retains its basic form while demonstrating the use of three synthetic materials for updating – synthetic stone, asbestos siding (the garage) and vinyl siding on the north wing. The historic district is a well-preserved collection of mid and late 19th century and early 20th century architectural styles and vernacular house forms located in Waverly's southwest residential neighborhood. The neighborhood developed as a middle class and working class residential district from the late 1850s through the mid-20th century. The garage is considered noncontributing.

Historical Background for Waverly¹

Waverly was established in 1853 along the Cedar River in Waverly Township located in southeastern Bremer County. It was designated as the county seat for Bremer County the same year that the county was officially organized and was formally incorporated in 1859. Like most lowa towns established before the Civil War, growth during the early 1860s was deferred until after the war came to a close. Waverly's first railroad, the Cedar Falls and Minnesota Railroad was extended to Waverly in 1864. Eventually track was also laid for other branch lines and an electric interurban. By 1917 track for branch lines was absorbed by the Chicago and Great Western Railroad and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad. Track for the electric interurban – the Waterloo, Cedar Falls, and Northern – was laid in 1910 but usage was never as substantial as predicted.

Waverly grew in the manner typical of other lowa county seats in the late 19th and early 20th century. Its commercial center extended along the east-west route of Bremer Avenue on both sides of the Bremer Avenue Bridge that crossed the L-shaped course of the Cedar River as it passed through the center of town. The county courthouse was located outside of the commercial area on a slight prominence at the east end of Bremer Avenue. Residential districts grew up in the four quadrants formed by the intersecting main street and river. The broad, generally flat profile of both the business district and early residential neighborhoods saw the regular occurrence of flooding resulting in the gradual replacement of most first generation frame building stock. German immigrants were among the largest ethnic group to populate Waverly during the 19th century establishing religious institutions with ethnic affiliations such as St. Paul's Lutheran Church in the northwest quadrant, St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in southeast quadrant, and the German Methodist Church.

Bremer County and its county seat of Waverly prospered during the late 19th and early 20th century becoming a retail and professional services center for Bremer County and sections of adjacent Butler County. The county's standing as the "Dairy Spot of Iowa," gave rise to a number of dairy industries including a manufacturing plant operated by the Carnation Milk Products Company for the production of condensed milk in the 1920s. Population stood at 16,300 people in 1900 before the growth rate slowed before World War I. By 1930 population topped 17,000. Expansion of a Lutheran seminary in Waverly first located in the community in 1879 through the relocation of Wartburg College to the community in 1939 was a cultural and economic stimulus for the community. Waverly continued to add a 1,000 people per decade until 1950 when the post-War boom saw growth accelerate to more than 21,000 by 1960. During the past 50 years population has slowed somewhat topping out at 23,325 in 2000.

Historical Background for the Dickinson-Corey-Temple House at 410 2nd Ave SW

The Dickinson-Corey-Temple House is located in the southwest quadrant of Waverly that includes additions platted by early Waverly settlers, Ira Sturdevant and his son William Sturdevant. The Sturdevant family moved to the unsettled area along the Cedar River in the mid-1850s. Ira received a 40-acre federal land grant based on his military service in the War of 1812. William acquired 80 acres of adjoining land to the north of his father's 40-acre parcel. In 1857 the William Sturdevant's Addition was laid out and in 1860 the Ira Sturdevant Addition was platted. Growth remained relatively slow in these subdivisions until after the Civil War.

The Dickinson-Corey-Temple at 410 2nd St SW was constructed in ca. 1884 while the property was owned by S.H. Curtis. According to newspaper accounts and Iowa census information, Jonathan Dickinson, a barber, "bought the S.H. Curtis place in the third ward and is making many improvements. Our friends think it will make a profitable investment." (Waverly Republican, 10-16-1884). Walt Bucknell, a harness maker, paid $1,100 for the property three years later when he bought the house (Waverly Democrat, 2-11-1887). In 1892, Bucknell sold the house to George Corey (Corry) ((Waverly Republican, 4-17-1892).

A few years later the 1895 Iowa Census shows George Corry, a stone mason, and his wife Eva residing in the Third Ward. It appears that the dwelling may have been used for rental purposes by that time, however, since the 1899 city directory shows the George Corey family residing across the street at 403 Elm (2nd St SW). It is also possible that the directory address was in error and the Corey family resided here. On 5/3/1900 the Bremer County Independent reported that "Claude Temple has bought the little brick house of George Corey in the Third Ward for $750 and he takes possession at once." The Temple family continued to reside here according to a listing in the 1926 telephone directory but by 1931 was no longer listed here.
